FRIDAY, NOV. 19, 1875.

THE CUBAN FLURRY.

In the dearth of exciting matter since the close of the November campaign, the irrepressible Washington correspondents have been seeking to fill up the time prior to the assembling of Congress, by working up a sensational war with Spain. The opposition press have eagerly seized upon and exaggerated the report as a pretext for assailing the Administration, and the half guesses, inventions and humbug of the specials have been so conspicuously paraded in such papers as the N. Y. Herald, that even the British press has been gravely discussing the prospects of immediate hostilities. We have never given any credence to the reports that our Government was employing extraordinary measures in its intercourse with Spain, and reliance upon the patriotism and good sense of President Grant has been sufficient to assure us of the unfounded character of the insinuation that he is anxious to embroil the country in a foreign war.

It now appears that the basis of the whole sensation was the simple fact that our Government had justly and decorously called the attention of the Spanish authorities to infractions of the terms of our treaty with that nation and insisted upon a full recognition of the rights of American citizens. Our despatches yesterday contained the substance of a late special to the Herald, purporting to give the terms of the Spanish reply and if its statements are correct, it would seem that there has been nothing in the correspondence to warrant the bubbub which has been made in the newspapers. A despatch to the Boston Journal also states that the latest advices from Minister Cushing "indicate that there is no danger of difficulty with Spain" and the usually well informed writer adds "Indeed, one gentleman who has had special facilities for knowing the facts says that, unless something extraordinary happens between now and December 6, the President will state in his Message that our relations with Spain are more satisfactory than they for some time have been."

One of the peculiar features of the newspaper treatment of this question has been the performance of the N. Y. Herald. That paper only a few months ago, studded its columns with blazing paragraphs demanding the immediate capture of the Island of Cuba, denouncing the President for not instantly sending an army and fleet to hoist the Stars and Stripes over the Queen of the Antilles, and abusing Secretary Fish for hesitating a moment about declaring war. Now, the same paper soberly deprecates the evils of a foreign war, lectures the President upon his alleged disposition to bring about hostilities, and sings sweetly of the blessings of peace. And in this course, as in its former inflammatory utterances it is imitated by a large number of the opposition journals, which also demonstrate that they would plunge the country into a needless war, or oppose the maintenance of the National honor, just as the opportunity served to antagonize the Administration and serve partisan ends. The very organs which were eager to rush the country into the horrors of war on behalf of a party of filibusters who had dishonored the American flag by attempting to use it as a protection while violating the laws of the country, have demonstrated the readiness with which they would assail a Republican Administration which should find it necessary to resort to extreme measures in defending the rights of peaceable and law-abiding American citizens.

Fortunately we have men in control of our foreign relations who regard the interests of the country from a higher stand than that of demagogues and the record of the diplomacy of the past twelve years affords a guarantee that while our National dignity and prestige will be jealously maintained there will be constant and wise efforts to avoid unnecessary collisions with other governments.

For protesting against the insolent abuse of reputable citizens on account of action unanimously adopted by the Board of Aldermen, the Bangor Commercial turns its mud-machine in our direction and applies to us the choice and somewhat bellicose epithets of "fool and knave." We will confess that if any person of good repute should be moved to speak of us in that manner we should feel sorry for it, and that if an average man were to apply to us such terms we might be moved to anger, but since neither of these conditions apply to the billingsgate of what has become so suggestively known throughout this State as "Marcellus Emery," we are more inclined to pity and to smile at the ridiculous figure which that formidable entity presents, when dancing about with a chip upon its shoulder and waxing more profuse in vulgarity and insolence as it becomes assured that no one will stoop to tweak it by the nose.

We have been waiting for it! The announcement that Secretary Chandler had commenced a vigorous weeding out among the clerks of the Interior Department which the Tribune had declared to be "honeycombed with fraud," was promptly seized upon by that and kindred papers as a text for abuse of the Secretary for removing worthy men for partisan purposes. The Portland Advertiser did not delay in echoing this outcry and drawing a ponderous moral therefrom. We supposed all along that the removals were doubtless for cause and for good cause and now the correspondent of the Boston Journal informs us what it was: "It has been ascertained that a considerable number of the clerks recently discharged from the Interior Department were connected with pension and patent rings. The agents of some of the great patent rings seem particularly disturbed at the removal of their favorites." But the ponderous morals have been drawn, and the rule of those journals is "No corrections made after the articles have passed over the counter."

Gov Dingley has issued a proclamation declaring all the amendments to the Constitution of Maine, submitted to the people at the September election, adopted; and announcing that these amendments will become a part of the Constitution on and after January 1st, 1876. Chief Justice Appleton will present to the Legislature the collated and codified constitution, as amended at various times, for ratification by that body.

U. S Treasurer New states that: "Since the passage of the National Bank Act, there has been paid to the Government, without cost or expense to the National Government, by the banks, taxes as follows: On circulation, $22,220,941.45; on deposits, $20,257,266.19; on capital, $36,261.02; making $61,260,468.66."

Poor Guilford was refused consecrated burial because he was a member of a literary society which kept on its shelves some books that had been placed under ban by the Pope. And now the Londoners are remarking that Cardinal Manning belongs to Athenæum Club, which has lots of the prohibited books in its library, and they are querying whether a difference will be found 'twixt tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee.

A curious illustration of professional vicissitudes is found in the statement that what the libel suit of Henry C. Bowen against the Brooklyn Eagle was called up and postponed, the other day, ex-Judge Fullerton, one of Tilton's counsel in the great scandal trial, appeared for Mr. Bowen, while William A. Beach, another of Theodore's advocates, appeared for the Eagle as defendant.

The N. Y. Times foots up from the official returns and estimates a plurality of 14,454 for Bigelow, as Secretary of State. Mr. Seward had a clear plurality of 14,947 outside of New York city, which gave Bigelow a majority of 29,407. Forty-two counties show a total vote of 9 384 for the Prohibition candidate, The State Senate will be composed of twenty Republicans and twelve Democrats, and the Assembly of seventy-one Republicans and fifty-seven Democrats; giving the Republicans a majority of twenty two on cuut ballot.

According to the Tribune's expressed opinion in its recent editorials concerning the two parties into which the country is divided it ought to be mightily ashamed of having helped the Democrats to a majority in the House of Representatives. It says: "The Republican party cannot be made the party of REPUDIATION, even if its leaders should take that course they would soon be left without a considerable following. The remarkable discipline of the Democratic party and the natural tendencies of many of its members not only expose the party to the peril of capture by repudiationists, but expose the country to peril of THAT PARTY SHOULD fall into their control." That is a singular confession for the Tribune to make after its four years crusade against the Republicans.—Kennebec Journal.

The idea of Republicans voting for a Democrat for Speaker does not strike the Boston Advertiser as very brilliant. It says "Unless the Republicans can be sure that they will gain something, either a positive victory or a weakening of their opponents by voting for a Democrat 'they certainly ought to vote for Mr Blaine. And we have yet to learn that there is one Democrat in the new House who will say that if Mr. Randall is nominated for Speaker he will vote against him. Moreover, we doubt if there is such a member. Did not Mr Thurman vote for Gov Allen?"

An announcement appears in the Washington papers that pools on the Speakership will be sold at one of the principal hotels, that Randall, Kerr, Cox, Wood, Sayler, Banks, Walker and Field will be sold to the highest bidders. The gamblers propose to take a hand in the contest, something never before witnessed in politics in Washington.

THE BUSINESS PROSPECT. For the last three months our principal jobbers in all the leading departments of trade have reported an unexceptionally good business season. At an interview this morning with the senior partner of the largest dry goods jobbing house in Boston, the following facts were elicited. He says "We have this morning received returns from five of the largest Western States, and reports that in all these States the jobbers and retailers are doing a larger and better business than during any previous year since the close of the war." The same gentleman, referring to his own business, remarked that out of four thousand regular accounts, scattered all over the United States, not one was on the first of July bad failed, suspended, or asked for an extension. The crops throughout the Westhave been harvested and housed, and are beyond possible damage, and are more than satisfactory both in quantity and quality, and the farmers and planters are realizing fair prices, and in many instances more than ordinarily. With this fact well established and with the further fact that the market for these products is good, there is no occasion to mistrust the future. As was said in the Traveller, last week, in four out of five of the cases of suspensions, failures and bankruptcies that have occurred, the causes are directly traceable to illegitimate transactions outside operations, and a reckless use of credits for accommodation.—Boston Traveller.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

It is stated that the Republican control of the Wisconsin Legislature may result in appointing Senator Howe to the bench and electing Mr Carpenter for the rest of his term.

Senator Morton denies the truth of the statement that he had attempted to interfere against Postmaster General Jewell.

Hon. J. Watts Kearney, a son of General Phil is said to have the inside track for the Kentucky Speakership this year.

The Cincinnati Gazette says that upon the eve of a Presidential election the Democratic party is burdened with a large majority in the lower House of Congress, a contest for Speakership, a general war upon Presidential aspirants within its ranks, a dispute as to whether the rag baby is dead or alive, a general set-back in the State elections, and other troubles too numerous to mention.

The Washington Capital says that Mr Randall has pledged himself, if elected Speaker, so to organize the committees of the House of Representatives as to prevent any expression of faith or opinion upon "any subject now before the public." That would seem to make Mr. Randall a model Democratic candidate for these times.

Here is a fact which shows how much the Mississippi returns are worth as indicating the true condition of things there, viz "At Utica, two Republican votes were cast in a total registered list of over six hundred."

A gentleman having asked Gov. Hayes of Ohion by letter whether he was a candidate for the Presidency, received the following effectual if not satisfactory answer.

DEAR SIR Content with the past, I am not in a state of mind about the future. It is for us to act well in the present. George E. Pugh used to say, "There is no political hereafter."

Count Moltke attained his 75th birthday recently, and the Emperor presented him with the family order of the Hohenzollerns, with a star and crossed swords, as a recognition of the Field Marshal's services.

Charles Schulter, a Justice of the Peace in Mazleton Pa., has been held to answer the charge of sending forged telegraphic despatches on election day with a view of influencing the election.

Ex-Senator Pease, recent Postmaster at Vicksburg, says of the Mississippi election:

"The intimidation was not open and bloody, but done covertly, but effectively, and in such a manner as not to bring the perpetrators within the letter of the law. For instance, Democrats at all their meetings met armed with shot guns, rifles, pistols, and other weapons, and never lost an opportunity of displaying them and firing them off in the presence of the negroes. They paraded the country in mobs South, having with them frequently pieces of artillery, which they would fire off at the plantations on the various roads, thereby frightening the negroes "out bearing mark."

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

It is stated that the Republican control of the Wisconsin Legislature may result in appointing Senator Howe to the bench and electing Mr Carpenter for the rest of his term.

Senator Morton denies the truth of the statement that he had attempted to interfere against Postmaster General Jewell.

Hon. J. Watts Kearney, a son of General Phil is said to have the inside track for the Kentucky Speakership this year.

The Cincinnati Gazette says that upon the eve of a Presidential election the Democratic party is burdened with a large majority in the lower House of Congress, a contest for Speakership, a general war upon Presidential aspirants within its ranks, a dispute as to whether the rag baby is dead or alive, a general set-back in the State elections, and other troubles too numerous to mention.

A CARD.

I desire to say to my friends and the public generally, that I have an assortment of furs that I have returned, and intend to remain the present season. Having been connected with one of the largest Fur Houses in Boston, and become familiar with the trade, and understanding also the wants of this community, I offer my services to all in want of anything in my line. To the Hon Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court, to be holden at Bangor, within and for the County of Penobscot, on the first Tuesday of October, A. D 1875.

Lois B. Weshire, of Winn, in the County aforesaid respectfully libels and represents, that she was lawfully married to Jeremiah D. Webber, at Chester, in the County aforesaid, on the seventh day of March, A. D. 1867, that she has had by him ten children, seven of whom are living, four being minors, viz.: Abbie E., Nicholas H., John C and Harry A., that since their intermarriage they have lived together as husband and wife until some time in May, A. D 1873, (in this State), that she has always conducted herself toward the said Jeremiah D. as a faithful and affectionate wife, but the said Jeremiah D. Webber, wholly regardless of his marriage covenants, has from time to time during all those years, so conducted as to render her married life extremely unpleasant and one of great hardship, that he has repeatedly treated her with great cruelty, using cruel beating, and most indecent and profane language, even in the presence of his family and others, that he has repeatedly accused her of the crime of adultery, and many times repeated the accusation to people outside of his family, thus attempting unjustly to degrade her, and injure her good reputation, that he has many times threatened to kill himself and her, that he has committed that he has committed the crime of adultery with certain lewd women to your libelant unknown, that he committed the crime of adultery in the summer or fall of 1873 with a certain lewd woman to your libelant unknown, at said Winn, that he cruel, abusive and indecent had his conduct toward her been, that some time in May, A. D. 1873, he left said Winn, and went, as your libelant supposes, to California or Oregon, that since he left, she has resided in Winn with her own family and provided for their support without his aid; that she supposes the said Jeremiah to be somewhere in California, that she has used reasonable diligence to ascertain his present place of residence, but has failed to learn it, and that it is unknown to her.

Wherefore and because she believes it to be reasonable and proper, conducive to domestic harmony and consistent with the peace and morality of society, your libelant prays that she may be divorced from the bonds of matrimony between her husband Jeremiah D. A Frightful Accident—4 Passenger Train Telescoped

ATLANTA, Nov. 18. A frightful accident occurred last night on the Charlotte Columbia and Augusta Railroad near Pine Hill, Ga., about 25 miles from Atlanta. A freight and passenger train both collided at a switch. The passenger train was thrown down a bank and telescoped. Four cars were smashed, crushed and bleeding. In the confusion that followed the wildest scenes and most heart-rending cries were heard from the wreck. Among them was Gen. Chamberlain of South Carolina.

THE WHISKEY FRAUDS.

The McDonald Trial.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18. In the McDonald case, yesterday, Joseph M. Harvey re-testified to a series of raids on the U. S. Distillery Co.'s office in 1871 and '72, and to the appointment of Deputy Collector Charles W. Ford's office in 1873; remained until that time and continued with Mr. McDonald in the same position. He received letters from Megrue, Thorpe and others, and had repeated conversations with Joyce in regard to it. He said it was all right, and did not think Joyce knew the constituted illegal; but heard money was paid for political purposes.

Subsequently he learned from McDonald and Joyce that the Ring consisted of Megrue, McDonald, Joyce, Collector Ford and Maguire, W. McKee, Avery, Patrask, Newcomb and gaugers and storekeepers. Witness's duty was to pay money to rectifiers, Tebb, Bowles and Bridges, Tesche and others; had a few conversations with McDonald, but the tenor of his instructions were to keep distillers show as low as possible, and not to make crooked whiskey to any extent.

This was in 1872; knew of the coming of Gens Brooks Brasher, Varyan and Gaynor to St. Louis before their name, and met distillers, told them to straighten up under the instructions of Joyce. The main part of the money received from distillers was divided in seven parts and a division made among McDonald, Joyce, Maguire, Newcomb, Patrick, McKee and Avery. Storekeepers and gaugers were paid off yearly in various sums and by different persons. Mr. Cunningham, who was a ring collector in 1873, also received money ranging from $100,000 to $300,000 per year.

During the first part of the present year witness had a conversation with McDonald at the Planter's House, in which McDonald said he wanted $5,000 to remunerate some parties that had given information received from them. Witness raised the money and threw it over the transom of the door of McDonald's room as agreed with him. Witness was present when $5,000 was given by Joyce to McKee in the lobby of the Planter's House. McKee said to witness, "Harvey, this is a sacred thing, you must keep it secret." Witness replied he would do nothing to injure himself.

This was just before Maguire became solvent in November, 1873. When Joyce was in California, money was divided by McDonald up to 1873; it was divided into six parts, after that into seven parts; witness had a conversation with McDonald in regard to his testimony before the Grand Jury last May; McDonald told him he must stand firm; that it would not amount to anything; that they must stand by each other.

On cross-examination witness thought he might have $40,000 or $45,000 as his share of the Ring fund; said he is under indictment for conspiracy to defraud the government, for perjury and for violation of the revenue laws. He made up his mind to plead guilty to all the indictments against him, except the one for perjury, some days before he did it. He had no understanding with anyone as to what will be done with his case—no promise of any kind was made to him.

Spain's Reply to the United States.

A SATISFACTORY DOCUMENT.

THE TONE OF THE REPLY CONCILIATORY.

A Full Synopsis of the Note.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18. A Washington special to the Herald says the reply of the Spanish Government to the note of Minister Cushing, was promptly transmitted by cable to the State Department and deciphered. It proves to be a dignified response to the demands which our Government made in the matter of American interests in Cuba and will dissipate all fears of trouble between Spain and the United States. The tone of the reply is firm, but very conciliatory. The justice of our demand is not ignored. The confusion of affairs in Cuba obstructs the exercise of an important and prompt administration of the requirements of the treaty of 1795. Spain defends her right to maintain courts martial in Cuba, and in support of her position on this question, cites the fact that the United States during, and for a long time subsequent to the late war of secession, and France for two years succeeding the triumph of the Republic over the Commune, and even then under the mild reign of Thiers, and her right of similar military extraordinary tribunals to deal out justice to public and civil enemies. In the case of Spain these tribunals succeeded to be slow to be from 1868 to the close of 1869, and yet these tribunals exercised their functions after the close of the war and the advent of complete peace. Therefore Spain, in the midst of her war with China, maintains the right of holding courts martial to try offenders against the laws, but readily makes the concession that American citizens can have their advocate or attorneys, and produce witnesses in their own behalf conformably to the provisions of article 7 of the treaty of 1795 and according to the regular course of proceedings in such cases, and gives guarantees of such a mode of defence. Of course in the case of Spanish subjects, no exception will be made which will allow them the enjoyment of this advantage in defending themselves against prosecution by the Spanish authorities for their offences. In these cases the advocates will be designated by the chief military authorities—that is, the Captain-General will appoint them.

The above is a full synopsis of the answer of the Spanish Government in reply to Minister Cushing and has been deemed satisfactory enough to warrant a countermand of orders originally given to put our Navy in preparation for such a contingency as a misunderstanding between the two Governments.

THE BLACK HILLS COUNTRY.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS.

The Recommendations Made.

A System of Education Proposed and Methods for Inducing the Savages to Labor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18. The Tribune publishes the full report of the Indian Commissioners to trial for the possession of the Black Hills country. Starting out with the history of the whole affair, the Commissioners state the reason for the failure of the negotiations. Conspicuous among these reasons is the interference of persons not Indians, who are interested in having a large annual money payment to the Indians, affording a permanent fund, of which the Indians may be despoiled. The recommendations of the Commissioners are radical, and point to a thorough revision of relations with the whole Indian population west of the Mississippi.

The recommendations, however, are confined to the Sioux Indians. The commissioners recommends Congress to take the Indians, and instead of attempting to negotiate, shall, by law, provide for the separation of all the Sioux Indians between the ages of 6 and 16 years, from the adult population, and make provision for the thorough education of minors at some point or points where they will be free from the control and influence of the adult Indians, this system of education to include manual labor and industrial schools, and to be compulsory. Having thus provided for the future civilization of the minor population, Congress shall, by law, require that the adult Indians shall perform labor as the condition of subsistence, and after a date in the future, subsistence shall be issued only to such as shall labor and to the aged and infirm.

A further recommendation is that every Indian be encouraged in the acquisition and protected in the possession of private property. The Indians now occupying the most western part of Nebraska are to be removed to the reservations established by the treaty of 1868, where land suitable for agriculture can be found, and supplies furnished. Supplies shall hereafter be furnished under the supervision of the officers of the army.

They also recommend that all the present agencies be abolished and the whole system be reorganized, so far as relates to the Sioux Indians, and that such compensation be offered and agents be appointed as will command honesty and competency. The Indians to be notified that such force as may be necessary will be used to enforce and maintain the policy of the Government to the end that the Indians may become civilized and self-supporting, the Government to take upon itself the duty of feeding the Indians a fair equivalent for the thefts, taking into consideration all the circumstances, and such sums to be paid to become a part of the fund received in the general plan to educate and civilize the Sioux. It is proposed by this means to break up the life of pauperism which the Indians have been leading, and to civilize and educate the Sioux and make them producers.

A REDDE ALLENT COMPLIMENT FOR GEN. CILLEY. The Providence (R. I.) Daily Journal, Senator Anthony's paper, has the following pleasant word for Gen. Cilley:

We learn that the friends of Gen. J. P. Cilley, of Rockland, Me., are putting him forward as a candidate for the office of Adjutant General of that State. Gen. Cilley was a gallant officer of four years service in the war of the rebellion, and was brevetted Brigadier General, United States Volunteers, for gallant and meritorious services while in command of his regiment (First Maine Cavalry) during the last days of the war. He was severely wounded in the early part of the conflict, a rebel shell carrying a portion of the bone of the right arm, rendering his disability permanent, and thus giving him an equal claim upon his fellow citizens for the position is acknowledged, and the Republican party of our sister State will do the State honor and win the gratitude of brave men by nominating Gen. Cilley's services and meritorious and gallant life in the high position which he fought for.

There are over 34,000 Germans in the United States, with a combined wealth of about 1,500,000.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Woman's Crusade held a public meeting in City Hall this evening.

The public schools close Saturday noon and not to-day as we inadvertently stated yesterday.

A valise was taken from the E. & N. A. depot yesterday noon, but no clue could be had of the thief.

Gen. James A. Hall, Collector of Customs for the Waldoboro' District, was in the city yesterday.

If a little sand were sprinkled on some of the icy sidewalks it would make the walking less dangerous.

The sum realized by the ladies connected with the Home for aged women, at the recent supper and dance, was $140. The ladies wish to express their thanks to all who assisted them.

Wm. McGilvery & Co., of Brewer, are getting out the moulds for another ship, which will be put up as soon as the frame can be cut; until then work will be suspended in their yards.

The parties arrested on suspicion of entering and taking boots from the store of McCullough & Son, of Calais, were examined before Judge Downes, Wednesday and discharged for want of evidence.

The Gospel Workers, from the Seminary will hold a meeting for praise and prayer in the lecture room of the First church next Sunday evening. "The Winnowed Hymns" will be used in the praise service.

There was a goodly attendance at the entertainment in the Essex street church last evening. Mr. J. H. Hoffman read to the evident satisfaction of his hearers, who certainly appreciated his efforts. The supper which took place after the reading was very much enjoyed.

Hon. Carl Schurz, who is to lecture in this city next week, will speak upon the subject, "Centennial Thoughts." This is a new lecture and coming from a man of so much intellectual power as Mr. Schurz, it can not fail to be of rare merit, and our citizens should not fail to improve the opportunity of hearing the lecture.

The Knights of Pythias held a sociable last evening, at which there was a full representation of the Knights and their lady friends. The literary exercises consisted of essays and letters, ostensibly from distinguished and celebrated men. After the intellectual part of the performance, they practiced for a little while at a picnic supper, when they enjoyed themselves in a social manner before breaking up.

At the meeting of the G. A. R. last evening, no definite action was taken in regard to the return camp-fire; but all who were present were unanimously in favor of giving it. The subject will be discussed next Thursday evening, when it is hoped there will be a larger attendance. A camp-fire will undoubtedly be held; and the arrangements will be made as soon as it's convenient for the Post to do so.

The snow is 14 inches deep at Mooseheard Lake, and drifting badly. The weather was so cold there Wednesday that Mr. Carroll, the stage driver, had his ears and nose frozen. The Shirley House was sold at auction Wednesday to Horatio Knowles, of Corinna. The timber lands in connection with the house were sold to 3 to parties. The lake is nearly closed to navigation.

MAINE BUSINESS DIRECTORY. We have received a copy of this useful work for the year 1876, which gives a complete index to the mercantile, manufacturing and professional interests of the State, together with much valuable miscellaneous information. It is a most convenient volume for the counting room. Briggs & Co., Publishers, Boston. Price $2.

TEMPERANCE. The Bangor Division S. of T., held an interesting meeting last evening. Among the exercises were select readings, declamations, and the discussion of the question. Resolved, That the multiplicity of temperance organizations is an evil. The question excited a very lively discussion among the members. At the next meeting the Division paper will be read. These exercises make the meetings very interesting, and are a great inducement to the members to attend.

A correspondent writes that the spiritualists of Bradley and vicinity held a levee and dance in Union Hall, Wednesday evening, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the hall was well filled. The first part of the evening was devoted to the selling of fancy articles, and an entertainment consisting of reading, speaking and music. At 10 o'clock the hall was cleared and about fifty couples tripped the light fantastic. A Block of Bradley, who broke his leg last week, is getting along as well as could be expected.

THE WEEKLY COLLIER, issued to-day, is the largest in size, and has the largest circulation of any paper in Eastern Maine. It also has double the amount of reading matter of any weekly publ shed in this section. To-day's issue contains a full report of the Grand Army reunion at Dexter, a story entitled, "The Girl he left behind Him," and a number of shorter stories. There is also a large amount of domestic, foreign and local news in its columns, together with several editorial articles on subjects of interest.

A WINTER COLONY OF COLTS. We learn that John Cummings, Esq., of Woburn, Mass., a partner in the tannery business of Alexander Webb & Co., in this county, has sent eighteen fine colts, principally yearlings and two-year-olds, owned by him, to Lowell for the winter. A stable has been specially fitted up with box stalls for their accommodation and every provision made for their care during the cold season. The larger number of the colts are of Patchen and Gray Eagle stock, and a few of them Fearnaughts. They have been selected with much care and some of them are said to give promise of making unusually fine horses.

NARROW ESCAPE. T. N. Egery, Esq., escaped very serious injury last Wednesday while riding from Sebec depot to Barnard in a wagon used as a stage. While driving down hill the forward axle broke, and Mr. Egery was thrown to the ground between the two horses, one of which kicked furiously, and came so near Mr. Egery's head that he kicked his hat off, and left a slight scar. In some mysterious manner the old gentleman extricated himself without further injury, but the fall makes him quite lame. At the time he was wrapped up in a large cloak, and was unable to use his arms at all. It was certainly a most fortunate escape.

A CURIOUS FACT. A gentleman from this city was told the following curious fact, yesterday, by Mr. Swasey. At the Bucksport Salmon Breeding Works, Wednesday night, the last fastener in the sluice left open by the dam, from which the supply for the Works is received, completely filling it so that no water passed through at all. The spawn formed by holding the gate was four feet white and tantalized day —running water. Then as the water backed up in the pond, instead of flowing over the top of the gate, the pressure was such as to force the water out, until it had formed a thick-ness of the gate of four feet, and the water in the fishway, which at one time was of seal and harmony in the efforts of the officers of the institution. The organization was found to be good and the working of the College efficient, although the efforts for its development were evidently cramped by the failure of the last Legislature to grant adequate financial assistance. The College now has 115 students, the last Freshmen class numbering 35. The Fall Term closes to-day, and quite a number of students will find employment in teaching during the vacation. The Trustees gave careful consideration to the needs of the institution and they will ask of the Legislature only such aid by appropriation as is pressingly demanded. We earnestly believe that the next Legislature will prove more considerate than the last in providing what is actually needed for the maintenance and encouragement of this useful institution.

GOOD TEMPLARS. We have received from George E. Brackett, Esq., Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars in Maine, the report of the proceedings of the recent semi-annual meeting held in Belfast. The reports of the officers show that the order has been on the decline for some time. During the past six months the present determined officials have cleared the rolls of all dead lodges and members. In April the total membership was 17,515. During the three months ending July 31, 2,135 had been initiated, and 155 added by card or re-instated.—During the same time 401 had withdrawn from the order, 47 had died, expelled 220, suspended 342, lost by surrender and forfeiture of lodges 4,320, leaving the total membership July 31st, 13,463. The number of lodges is 175. The officers of the Grand Lodge are at present making a general attempt to restore the order to its former power and influence.

MAINE MILITIA AT THE CENTENNIAL. The Augusta Journal is informed that the Adjutant General has received a communication from a committee on the part of the Philadelphia authorities, on the Centennial, asking for information as to the probable number of troops from Maine that will visit Philadelphia next year, at what date they will come, and if they will bring their own camp equipage. This would seem to indicate that Maine is expected to be represented by her military, and we have no doubt it will create an incentive for the companies to put themselves in condition, and attain the highest degree of efficiency in military drill and manœuvre.

The Evening Star of Washington says: If young men in the country who aspire to political positions under the Government at Washington could realize the consternation which prevails among the employes at every change made in the head of a department, and the continual unrest in which they live, move and have their being, they would seize the plow-handle with a tighter grip and jounce drive their teams afield, fully determined never to get within the charmed circle of official life and political assessments.

IMPORTANT TO FISHERMEN. The attention of the Treasury Department having been called to certain irregularities connected with the withdrawal of salt in bond to be used in curing fish, the Secretary has made a decision that salt so withdrawn can not be used for any other purpose than for actually curing fish used as food, and is consequently excepted from use in the salting of scines or the curing of porgies or other fish of that description, and understood to be generally used as food; and in the certificate to be used to cancel their bonds, the fishermen will be required to make affidavit that no portion of their salt has been used for salting scines or in curing fish other than those commonly used for food.

PASSUMPSIC BROTHERS. P. T. Barnum told the following in his lecture in Chicago: "On his museum, a gentleman and daughter stood gazing at the Siamese Twins. The showman said they were the most remarkable phenomenon in the known world, surpassing even in Siam, &c. 'Brothers, I suppose?' remarked the gentleman, interrogatively, still looking with wonder at the tied-ups. 'Yes, Sir, brothers; natural brothers, too,' said the showman. 'My dear,' said the visitor, religiously, turning to his daughter think of the goodness of Providence in making two natural brothers together, instead of two strangers.'"

WHAT THEY SEND IN NEWSPAPERS.—Sir John Lubbock, Postmaster General of Great Britain, says in his late report that newspapers sent to England from the United States and from Canada frequently contain enclosures liable to the letter rate of postage, and in six months of last year more than 14,000 newspapers were found to have such enclosures secreted in them. Among the articles posted contrary to the regulations of the Department, and sent to the Returned Letter Office, were a horned frog alive, a stag-beetle alive, white mice alive, snails alive, an owl, a kingfisher, a rat, carving knives and forks, gun cotton and cartridges.

BORACINE. A New York periodical of fashion, speaking of the injurious effects of all preparations for the hair containing sulphur, lead, oils and glycerine, asks "What shall we do for our hair?" The answer is in a nut-shell—use BORACINE, the new and wonderful specific, acting directly upon the hair follicle, curing at once all scurfs and eruptions of the head, stopping the hair from falling out, producing rapid growth, rendering the hair soft, moist and glossy, and by far the most elegant dressing ever discovered. TWENTY YEARS OF WAITING.

[From the Galaxy.]

When I hear people talking about romance having died a natural death in this busy nineteenth century, and how prosaic and uninteresting our lives have become I always think of my old friend Phil Rodent. I don't think I ever heard a story quite like his. "Twenty years of a man's life spent in waiting! and waiting is the hardest kind of work.

The other day he came into my study, looking worn and anxious. "What's the matter, Phil?" I asked as he threw himself into an easy chair.

"Why that Johnson woman is dead. No need of her dying a day more than you or me. And her husband just come home—as fine a lad as ever stepped. Nice news to meet a man with—Here's your wife dead; now what's to be done with the children?" His vessel was wrecked, you know, and though she heard the crew was picked up that foolish woman was bound to have him drowned. I tried my best to keep her alive; but she just fretted herself into her grave.

All have not your patience, Phil," I said gravely.

He sat thinking for some minutes, while that calm resolved look came into his face that I so loved to see there. The lines of care in his head smoothed themselves away. We then sat thus each thinking his own thoughts. I could guess what Phil was or I knew the thought that brought that light of hope and trust in.

What a grand grave face my friend had. His prow-ful frame bore very lightly the burden of its three-score years. His step was quick and elastic and his hand—soft and white as a woman's yet with a grip like steel—was as firm and steady as it had ever been.

He gently he rose and began drawing on his gloves. "I must go now, Archie, my patients will be very impatient this morning I fancy. You have done me good or taught me how to do myself good which is better and Archie if you think the story of my life will help some other life that is weary of living tell it to me, and tell it in such a way as may be long the rest that remaineth to us at its close."

I had told my sermon and began my labor of love. Need I say my sermon was laid aside for what nobler sermon can there be than a good man's life.

"Let's ask your patience while I go back a little long way to begin my story properly. How like picture galleries seem the years as we look back upon them. Here a spot in the window with the sunlight sloping warm and bright upon it, there a bit of rocky coast, on which the long line of breakers crash and thunder the only hint of the stormy sea far out to sea, and as we grow older we see more and more plainly that to be a the real duties of the pictures of light and shade come from above.

"One evening, about ten years ago I was sitting in my cheerless unhomelike hotel parlor when a letter was handed to me bearing the postmark of a remote little village among the Connecticut hills. I had been there once long years ago and as I took the letter a waft from the breezy hills and fragrant woods swept over my memory bearing again the thrill of pleasure with which I first welcomed them.

I opened the letter, the writing was familiar. I glanced at the signature. It was that of my old college friend, Phil Rodent.

I shut my eyes and then thought as while the tide of memory was too strong for me. I had to let it float away. Twenty six years before Phil and I had clasped hands over our farewell bo to finish his medical education abroad. I to enter the theological seminary. And now here was an old man with failing health and heights by reason of the quiet little village where we had once called away our summer vacations many a jest at the old-time ways and customs of its primitive inhabitants. Ah me! what they are not to be. How many eyes grow dim with watching for the river breaks. Of many we no hope down that in the great here-after blighted but may swell and blossom into the full flower.

"I have heard of you my friend wrote Phil. You are out of health and spirits come to me and we will cheer you up. I have a room ready for you in my bachelor's hall and we need you here. Our minister good old man has gone to his reward and we have a shepherd less flock. We have had a young man preaching for us, talented and good intentioned but he soared among the clouds too much for our heads grew dizzy watching his aerial flight. So we shut our eyes and let him thinking that as he seemed to grow the way he would come back to reach terra firma again. But that is not what we want. We want to be baptized and instructed and buried in the good old way and you must do it for us. Say when you will come and God may bless you and I will meet you at the station.

"Now I had learnt, wise. If new was to give me strength and happiness it is the hardest I had to myself.

"You never knew my brother Paul, did you Archie? Phil seemed used in his full question. Poor fellow he met with an end when he could which benefitted further. When he was still the second of my two (he was eight years younger than myself) I took him to term my to confirmations physician, in whose skill I had great faith. Just before our sailing this physician came on board with a gentleman whom I had been accustomed to see in my visits to the family of a rich merchant living in the same street. This gentleman was a handsome and stalwart looking man, with a frank open manner that won one's confidence at once. He was introduced to me as Mr. Lambert, a name I had often heard mentioned by my patient's family. Mr. Lambert was especially witty in conversation, though his wit was of the sarcastic kind that wounds oftener than it pleases. Many a time have I seen Kathleen's cheeks flush and her eyes fill with tears, at some careless sneer from this man of the world. I warm my love and cherish her, and then, Archie, I confess I had to clinch my hands to keep from collaring him and pitching him over the rail. The mystery of that union I never fathomed, he seemed utterly indifferent to her, and that she did not love him I was mortally sure, that she feared him I was almost equally sure. Her father seemed kinder, and for him she evidently entertained great affection. One day he joined our little party, saying as he laid his hand upon his daughter "trying to replace the poor little Parisian, Kathleen's head, that's right. There has added, half sad, half jestingly, 'I wonder if the good deeds of an angel can blot out the sins of the evil ones' ask that pale boy, Kathie, he looks as if familiar with the ways of angels.'

"Kathleen bent her head with a vivid blush, but Paul reached up and took her hand saying, with his own bright smile, 'I have been lately, sir.'

"I believe you my boy' her father said, hastily, 'may it do more good than it has done me.' Then he turned away, and I followed, for I thought Kathleen would rather be alone with Paul for a time.

"When I returned Paul was saying 'Do you know Kathleen, with all your dear little motherly ways, I am four years older than you.'

"In years, perhaps but oh Paul, not in heart.' And she continued in answer to his reproachful look, 'how gladly would I bear your sorrow, heavy though it is, no words can tell.'

"Then I withdrew as gently as I had come knowing that my gentle brother could comfort her better than I could. The day Paul mentioned our destination, a German watering place. Her face lighted up 'We are going there, too, at least I think so, I have heard them mention it.' Then stopped abruptly, and changed the subject before either of us could reply.

"Paul tried to lie down and talk to her for hours after I took him down stairs and one night when he had been telling me how cruelly Kathleen's lips had kept secret the misery any child might read in her face he looked suddenly at me with a penetrating, startled glance. 'Poor Phil' 'Poor Kathleen' I answered, wondering at his word

C A BOUTELLE, Editor

In announcing the Forty-second Volume of this standard Newspaper, the Proprietors beg leave to state that during the past year they have incurred large expense in thoroughly refitting their establishment and are determined to spare no effort in maintaining its high character as

The Leading Journal OF EASTERN MAINE.

We have now one of the best appointed news paper offices in the State, have made important additions to our Editorial, Reportorial and Correspondence corps and are in every way prepared to furnish our patrons with a

FIRST CLASS DAILY NEWSPAPER.

With facilities at our command we hope to make this favorite newspaper more interesting and acceptable during the coming year than ever before Our connection with the ASSOCIATED PRESS, by which we receive the whole of their despatches by night and day, enables us to present in each issue

The Latest Telegraphic News from All Parts of the World.

In addition we shall be served by Special Correspondents at important points, and shall furnish

of the proceedings of Congress the State Legislature, meetings of Agricultural Societies and other public bodies, carefully corrected Financial and Market Reports, a reliable Shipping List, original and selected Stories and Poetry a large amount of Miscellaneous and entertaining Miscellany and a very full department of News of This Section and the State.

In politics the paper will continue to advocate and uphold the principles of the Republican party while claiming to be independent in the highest and best sense of the word. While fearless and outspoken in its treatment of all public questions and firmly maintaining what it believes to be right, it will avoid intolerance and make its appeals to the understanding rather than to prejudice. The year about to open will be fruitful of political events of important bearing upon the future of the country, and it will be our aim to keep our readers thoroughly informed, and to favor such measures and policy as will best promote the welfare of all the people. The great interests of AGRICULTURE AND MANUFACTURES of Maine will receive special attention and all the influence of the paper will be exerted in stimulating the growth and prosperity of our beloved State. We rigidly exclude from our columns everything of an immoral tendency, avoid sensational matter and seek to make a thoroughly reliable paper which will find

A Welcome in Every Family Circle.

To advertisers our columns open one of the best fields in New England our circulation being among the best classes of the people and at this paper affords the principal medium of communication with a large and constantly increasing number of readers throughout Central and Eastern Maine. On the first of January the paper will appear in
